JOSEPH MAYO

LEED BD + C, Regional Associate Director

Mayo was awarded AIA Seattle's Emerging Professional Travel Scholarship in 2011, traveling abroad to research the environmental and carbon impacts of wood construction, and its use in mid-rise and high-rise buildings in Europe. Based on his research, Mayo has become a leader in the movement to harness the carbon mitigation benefits of wood construction in Washington, advocating the use of this regional material to build sustainably and create a carbon neutral environment.
